Access &

FASTER VACATION HOURS FOR UKZN

ICATALOGUE is a one-stop-station to discover what is available at/via UKZN in terms of all print books, journals, theses, maps, audiovisual material and more, as well as to provide access to online theses and books and journals and articles that UKZN subscribes to. Journal articles that are reflected in most databases UKZN subscribes to are listed in iCatalogue.

As UKZN library is part of WorldCat you can also discover 'what is out there' beyond UKZN library in other academic libraries in the world that are part of WorldCat. Such items are not available to UKZN users but are useful to alert one to available publications. As UKZN is the first library in South Africa to adopt WorldCat, holdings of other SA libraries are not yet available on icatalogue.

There are two search options available: the single search box after the row of tabs, and advanced search which we would recommend.

ADVANCED SEARCH

From the middle of the Library's webpage, click on icatalogue and then on 'Advanced search' below the single search box.

Search Clear

Depending on whether you are looking for items by their title, authors or keyword, use the relevant search boxes. You also have options to narrow by library, time range and formats eg articles, books, journals etc. You can also refine your search once you get a results list.

BE AWARE! iCatalogue sometimes differentiates between English and American spelling of words. To overcome this add a # symbol within a word where there might be differences of spelling eg: 'behavio#r'; or one or more ? at the end of a word depending on possible spelling eg 'program??' will find program and programme.

Narrow by library: There is a drop down list with 3 types of options.

- The default option is 'Libraries Worldwide' which will display items in all participating libraries BUT UKZN items always appear first.
- The next option in the drop down list is 'University of KwaZulu-Natal' which will display only items within and available to UKZN libraries.
- If you choose to search an individual library within UKZN you will only be able to see physical items not any online items. Prefer the first two options unless you are searching for books within a specific library.

Year: this is the publication date or range.

Format: There is a drop down list of options.

- 'All formats' means a search will be done across all the different types of resources, print and online.

- An individual format can be chosen such as articles, books (includes theses), journals etc. Remember that not all formats are available at UKZN but might be available in participating libraries.

Results list

The screenshot shows the University of KwaZulu-Natal library search interface. At the top left is the university logo and name. A search bar contains the text "schema theory" and a search button. Below the search bar, it says "Libraries to search: Libraries Worldwide" and "Advanced Search". The search results are limited to "Libraries Worldwide" and show "Complete results: 3,947 items shown." On the left side, there are filters for "Databases (29)", "Available online", and "Format". The "Format" filter is expanded, showing "All Formats (3,947)", "Article (2958)", "Peer-reviewed (1961)", "Chapter (363)", and "Downloadable article (80)". The main results area shows two items. The first item is "Stories, scripts, and scenes : aspects of schema theory" by Jean Matter Mandler, published by Erlbaum Associates in 1984. The second item is "A cognitive theory of cultural meaning" by Claudia Strauss and Naomi Quinn, published by Cambridge University Press in 1997. Both items are listed as being available at the University of KwaZulu-Natal Library. There are navigation and sorting options at the top right of the results area.

Analysis of results / refining options

Basic details of each result

Options to re-sort presentation of results

- The results list presents all UKZN library items first (university of KwaZulu-Natal is indicated in green), then those items in world libraries (World cat libraries designation in green).
- Details of a record include: title of item, authors, format, language of publication, publisher details or journal details in the case of an article and then either 'Availability' which means where the physical item is located at UKZN or 'View now' which is a link to some sort of online access
- The left hand column of the page offers an analysis of the results which are also refining options – how many results by database, resource type eg books; authors, year, language, subject etc with the number of results in brackets after the option. Books are often presented first.
- Results can also be reorganised by date, author and title instead of the default option 'relevance' (right hand side of page). BE AWARE that changing from the default option of 'Library and relevance' will not show UKZN items first.

Working with a BOOK result

For each book result you are given the title, author/s, format, language, publisher and whether UKZN has the book (University of KwaZulu-Natal library in green).

- At the end of these details are two options: Availability and View all editions.
- Availability means the location of the physical book. Click on 'Availability' to see which UKZN library has the book, whether it is available to be borrowed and its number on the shelf.
- In the item is an electronic book, the option 'View now' will appear. Click on this link to get to the full text.

The screenshot shows a search result for "Principles of criminal law" by Jonathan M Burchell and John Milton. Below the title and author information, there are two links: "Availability" and "View all editions >". An arrow points from the "Availability" link to a table showing the availability of the book at three different UKZN libraries.

26 of 28 available		Other formats and editions held by University of KwaZulu-Natal Library

Law Library (Pietermaritzburg Campus) Book	Available	L 345.68 BUR
GMJ Sweeney Law Library (Howard College Campus)	Available	345 BUR

NB! As the most recent edition of a book does not show up first, the 'View all editions' option will indicate different editions held by participating libraries. Click on 'View all editions' to see what other editions have been published and which editions are available at UKZN. If it says World Cat Libraries on the right hand side, UKZN does not have it.

3. Principles of criminal law by Jonathan M Burchell; John Milton	Print book	English	1997 2nd ed	Kenwyn : Juta	University of KwaZulu-Natal Library

If you click on the title of the item, you will get a page of information about that item – in the case of a book you might get an summary and / or the contents; physical description, subject headings, links to information about the authors, location within UKZN etc.

The screenshot shows a detailed view of the book "Principles of criminal law" by Jonathan M Burchell. The page includes a "Cite/Export" button with sub-options for Print, Email, Add to list, Share, and Permalink. Below the main information, there is a "More like this" section with subject headings: "Criminal law-- South Africa", "Criminal law", and "South Africa".

Cite/export: see how an items can be referenced in several styles (Harvard, APA, MLA, Chicago) or exported to Endnote

Print / email the page of information

Results can also be saved to a list for future use and you can personalise your search results such as creating a bibliography and saving searches and exporting lists to facilities such as Endnote. You will need to register for this and get a password. Click on 'World Cat sign in', top right of the WCL screen or the toolbar on the Library home page and register. Click on 'Add to list' and fill in your account details to be able to create lists.

UKZN theses are included in the catalogue. Where both a print copy and a pdf copy are available, you will see both 'availability' and 'view online' at the end of the details.

 Summary: Recent hostilities have witnessed the unprecedented involvement of voluntary human shields (VHS). As international humanitarian law (IHL) stands at the moment, VHS find themselves in the theatre of war without authorisation to participate in hostilities and accordingly enjoy no special protected status as combatants, non-combatants or civilian contractors. Current IHL does little but presume that VHS retain their
